It is when you sell that really counts. One of my firm rules; once I have doubled my money on a trade, sell, unless I am 100% certain the stock is going higher, and I can find a place to lock in the profit

DAILY - ARITHMETIC - Health and Retail Services

Here is how the break looked on the screen the day of the break. Different proposition at this point isn't it. Remember that the computer scales the charts to the screen, which is why a hand drawn chart can be more helpful at times. The STEX feature to do this illustration I find useful.
